

PRESS RELEASE

WHAT: CONCERT – Award winning traditional Irish Music

WHO: CHULRUA – Paddy O’Brien (master button accordion player), Patrick Ourceau (fiddle), Pat Egan (guitar). Chulrua concerts are more than just a healthy dose of Irish traditional music; they also talk about the instruments and the different types of tunes played in the tradition, tell a few stories about how particular tunes got their names, and about the musicians who composed or handed down the tunes and songs they play. AND OPENING FOR CHULRUA (pronounced, cool-ru-ah)

McINNIS’ KITCHEN – Celtic music in the tradition of a Maritimes kitchen party. The hottest new folk group from Minnesota. McInnis’ Kitchen music is energetic, rhythmic and is the synergy of combining Newfoundland or Cape Breton "kitchen music", an Irish ceilidh, or a New England contra dance. Their ballads can touch the heart and soul and the bands’ own original compositions take the listener to exciting new ground. Plenty of driving double-fiddling dance tunes and songs rich in the tradition of the Canadian Maritimes.
